LAVC Job Training Helps Monroe HS Prepare Future Aviation-Aerospace Workers

The LAVC Job Training Program is working with the San Fernando Valley Aviation-Aerospace Collaborative's (SFVAAC) internship program with Monroe High School's "School of Engineering and Design" to help connect high students with career experience in aviation and aerospace industry. Job Training connected the internship program with several aviation and aerospace companies to offer internship opportunities to Monroe High School students. This program is the first regional effort to provide hands-on information, instruction and on-the-job training to Monroe High School students on career opportunities in the San Fernando Valley aviation-aerospace community.
