Elohists: Looking into hosting a campus clean-up, as well as a Bible study group. No set meeting date or room yet.
Engineers: Currently have two projects in the works: 1) Robotics competition on March 2 and obtaining extra parts, and 2) Atmospheric water generator that is currently in prototype form but is working with Cal Poly Pomona to better it and mass produce.
Fosters: EOPS and Guardian Scholars are teaming up to put events together for Foster Care Awareness Month. One event a week for four (4) weeks. Looking for groups or individuals who want to work together.
French: Did a great job selling cookies last semester, but now need a new baker as the last one could not keep up with the orders. Half of the proceeds go to charities that help homeless students.
Hillel 818: The club’s purpose is to promote Jewish values and anyone of any faith can ask questions. Meetings always offer food.
International: Goal is to welcome students from other countries, but everyone is welcome. Last year the club had a mixer with over fifty (50) people where attendees were able to socialize and network.
LGBTQ+: Current initiatives are to make sure all-gender restrooms are open to all students, as well as to change the display names on campus software and emails, as it is difficult for trans students to view their birth names. Also looking for art submissions from queer artists for a zine.

Math: New officers and leadership within the club. Also, a math competition is coming up in March.

RCA: Looking for members who are interested in entering the respiratory therapy field.

Sociology: New leadership within the club.

VCP: For anyone interested in improv, there is a weekly workshop with details coming later that will put on two shows. The club will be hosting a social mixer on February 28 in the Theater building. There will be a play called Way of the World coming soon.

Writers: There is a new cabinet. New writing competitions are currently being planned. Hanging out at the Writer's Club will grant extra credit in most English classes.
